

C2E2 Educational Series

Introduction to health economics: Principles and methods

The Centre for Clinical Epidemiology & Evaluation (C2E2) is offering a series of educational opportunities in Winter/Spring 2017.

LIMITED SPACE AVAILABLE

REGISTER at C2E2.ca/educationalseries2017

COURSE OVERVIEW

- ✓ Discuss how economics can contribute to decision making and what settings are best suited to the application of health economic analytical methods
- ✓ Outline and distinguish between commonly used tools for economic evaluation including cost-effectiveness analysis and cost-utility analysis
- ✓ Describe basic components of economic evaluations such as perspective, time horizon, discounting and sensitivity analysis

COURSE FACULTY

William Hall, MSc
PhD Candidate, School of Population & Public Health, UBC
Research Associate, C2E2, VCHRI

Craig Mitton, PhD
Professor, School of Population & Public Health, UBC
Senior Scientist, C2E2, VCHRI

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Contact Meghan Donaldson at meghan.donaldson@ubc.ca
Visit www.C2E2.ca

WHEN

January 25, 2017
1:00 pm - 4:30 pm

WHERE

C2E2 at Vancouver General Hospital
7th Floor, 828 West 10th Avenue
Vancouver

FEE

CAD$60
Early Bird CAD$35 (until Jan 11)
Students CAD$35 (limited to 5)
Payment methods: Visa, Mastercard,
Journal Voucher, Cheque

