What does it take to make learning an enduring feature of how VCH operates, rather than a product of exceptional effort or individual initiative? The 2026 C2E2 Symposium is designed to answer this question. The focus is the enabling environment at VCH, the leadership, governance and data infrastructure that make system-wide learning possible, and what it will take to get there.

Featured Keynote

Dr. Laura Desveaux

Director, Learning Health System Leadership Centre, Trillium Health Partners

An internationally recognized leader in governing and operationalizing Learning Health Systems at scale. Her keynote,

Seeing Clearly, Acting Deliberately: What Learning Health Systems Make Possible, will explore how health organizations translate learning into sustained system-level improvement.

Program Highlights

Practice-based examples of learning embedded in care, featuring VCH work from the Integrated Practice Units for surgical care, patient experience, and community health services

A keynote and panel discussion with senior leaders and system partners on the leadership, governance, and data conditions required for system-wide learning

A group priority-setting exercise to identify what VCH must align, resource, and change to move toward becoming a Learning Health System
